WPS Office Exceeds Customer Requirements with Its Impressive Functionality, User Friendliness and Complete Compatibility with Microsoft

The Problem

Janet Harles of Fargo, North Dakota is a mental health practitioner for Creative Care for Reaching Independence, a non-profit organization dedicated to enhancing and enriching the lives and learning of people with disabilities located in Moorhead, MN. She spends about 60 percent of her time meeting with clients at their individual or group homes, working with them on mental health skill building, and 40 percent in her office. Janet is one of 12 employees in her department; overall the organization is comprised of about 500 employees.

Janet had purchased a new computer, which was not pre-loaded with any word processing or database software, both of which she needed for both personal and professional purposes. She had already decided against installing Microsoft Office due to the high cost, and began to search online for a viable alternative that was comparable to Microsoft Office, but at less cost.

"It was important to find office software that was compatible with Microsoft Office because we share a lot of documents at work. But I didn't want the hassle of opening files whose formats had been all garbled up because of going back and forth between different programs." She also wanted software that was relatively simple to use for the various forms she works with – time and billing sheets, and those she produces – charts for tracking client progress, spreadsheets for monitoring her productivity levels and face to face time with clients, newsletters and more.

"It was important to find office software that was compatible with Microsoft Office because we share a lot of documents at work," said Janet. "But I didn't want the hassle of opening files whose formats had been all garbled up because of going back and forth between different programs."

The Solution

Janet discovered WPS Office, downloaded and installed it on her desktop PC, and has never looked back after a year of using it. "I'm extremely impressed with how compatible WPS Office is with Microsoft, and have had no issues. It is completely interchangeable and because WPS Office is so similar to Microsoft, there was very little of a learning curve – I was able to use Writer and Spreadsheets immediately."

"I would certainly recommend WPS Office to anyone. It costs very little, works like a champ, I have all the functionality I need in one office suite, and never have any compatibility issues. It has been a great alternative to Microsoft Office for me." Janet Harles, Mental Health Practitioner, Creative Care for Reaching Independence
